

Holly Anderson Bio

Holly Anderson is the Urban Conservationist for the Pulaski Conservation District in Pulaski County, Arkansas. She started with the District in 2015 after taking early retirement from the Natural Resources Conservation Service, a division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, having served there as Grants & Agreements Specialist for 10 years. Prior to joining NRCS, she worked for over 25 years in environmental regulatory compliance with jobs in government, manufacturing, and consulting. She has a bachelor's degree in Environmental Science and a Master's in Professional and Technical Writing. Holly is a Pulaski County Master Gardener and a charter member and former Board Member of the Arkansas Environmental Education Association.